Allegan councilman awol, kicked off board

By Gari Voss

The Allegan City Council made the decision to remove a member from the Council. The root of the resolution fell on information that Mike Zeter had moved from his residence on Thomas Street to a location that was not in the city limits. According to Section 5.7 of the City Charter, councilmembers must reside in a residence within city. Once the move out of the city is made, the councilmember is no longer eligible to be on the council.

During the special meeting on Wednesday, September 24, 2025, a timeline came to light that gave some credence to the determination of residence. City Manager Joel Dye shared that in August the Allegan City Police informed him that an eviction notice had been served to Mr. Zeter along with a Personal Protection Order (PPO).

"I reached out to Mr. Zeter on September 8th via email inquiring about his residency," shared Dye. "He did not respond to that email. The mayor also reached out to inquire where he was living. We observed him staying at the Mason Lodge, which is outside the city limits."

"About two weeks after Joel had reached out to Mr. Zeter (September 15th), I reached out with the Mayor Pro Tem cced requesting a meeting with a specific date and time," explained Mayor Traci Perrigo. "I had not heard from him to confirm that he would be available. I texted with Mike asking if he was going to be able to meet. He responded that at that time, he could not commit to a meeting to talk about his residency."

After those attempts, residents who were aware of Mr. Zeter's situation inquired as to his ability to stay on the council since he no longer lived on Thomas Street. Others were aware of the PPO and were wondering if the council was going to address this.

Councilmember Will Walker asked for clarification wondering if Mr. Zeter's residence was temporary and if the council had done their due diligence. After examining the timeline, it was felt that the council and their legal counsel were following protocol.

Mayor Pro Tem Peter Hanse reminded the council that Mr. Zeter has a right to appeal the council's decision if he wishes.

After thoughtful discussion, the council looked at Mr. Zeter's situation as a whole. His residence outside the city would be the top infraction and take effect the day the move was made. Having a PPO violation may be another consideration. Missing Council Meetings in the future with no request to be excused would be a third.

The Resolution declaring a vacancy cited:

Section 5.7 of the City Charter provides that "a vacancy shall be deemed to exist in any elective office on the day when the officer dies, files a resignation with the city clerk, is removed from office, moves from the city, is convicted of a felony, or of misconduct in office under this charter, … is absent from three (3) consecutive regular meetings of the council, unless excused by the council for cause to be stated in the record of council proceedings."

The Resolution continued, that since Councilmember Zeter no longer resides on Thomas Street, and to resolve this situation: 1. The City Council finds that Section 5.7 has been violated; 2. A vacancy would be declared to exist; 3. The vacancy would be filled in accordance with applicable charter provisions; 4. The City Manager and City Attorney would move forward to fill the vacancy; and 5. The Resolution would take effect immediately.

In the end, the Council unanimously voted to pass the Resolution to declare Mike Zeter's City Council seat vacant, and to post the vacancy position.

Those wishing to fill the position can obtain the proper application from City Hall and submit a completed form before October 10, 2025, 5pm. The applications of those interested will be interviewed during a special Council meeting.

15-year-old female student makes threats against AHS

By Elizabeth Ferszt
Contributing Writer

A 15-year-old female student is facing weapons charges after allegedly threatening to attack Allegan High School.

According to Allegan County Prosecutor's Office, they have brought charges of filing a false report, threat of terrorism, stealing a firearm, felony firearm, and safe-breaking.

According to the police report, arrest affidavit, and warrant, Allegan Police Department was notified by the FBI's Detroit field office about a credible threat to the school. Officials were able to use an IP address linked to the girl's device in order to identify her as a suspect. She is being charged as an adult.

When police arrived at the 15-year-old's house, they spoke first with her parent, who brought her daughter out to talk with the police. They showed her the texts or postings of what she had sent to two people online. The girl then allegedly confessed to breaking into her mother's gun safe and stealing a Glock handgun.

It was unclear if the two people were fellow students at Allegan High School, and/of if they tipped the FBI. It is also unclear exactly when the threats were made and when she stole the gun.

Allegan Public Schools said in a statement that on Friday Sept. 19, before the school day had begun, law enforcement and the school district were alerted by the FBI about a possible threat and "concerning online conversations."

APS Superintendent James Antoine said on Thurs. Sept. 25 that even though the student was charged with multiple felonies as an adult, they cannot reveal her name: "Although the individual will be tried as an adult, the student is still considered a minor from the school district's perspective…and [APS] is obligated to follow privacy laws — even if information is publicly available elsewhere — we are limited in what information we can share."

However, Antoine confirmed that the 15-year-old used to attend Allegan High School, "but is now enrolled in Allegan Online."

According to the arrest report and other court documents used in her being taken into custody, the "concerning online conversations" or text messages that the girl sent included a detailed plan of attack for the school.

Here is what she wrote: "…get my mom's Glock firearm, a few cans of gasoline, and a fk ton of fireworks. I'll take my dad's van when he gets home, load up the back with gasoline and fireworks, drive it to school, the cafeteria is mainly windows."

"I would park the car outside the cafeteria in the parking lot, and put it in reverse. I'm gonna place a cinder block on the gas, BUT before I'm gonna douse the fireworks in gas, and throw a match/lighter in the back. Once the car crashes through the window, my plan is that it'll explode."

"If it does, that should cause enough chaos for me to get in, shoot the cop in the lunchroom, and just go trigger happy on anyone I see."

"I have another idea of breaking the glass windows on the classroom doors, [pouring] gas into the hole (carpeted floors) and just setting it on fire. If they don't suffocate to death then they'll just burn. And I'm probably going to do this on September 20th (my birthday)."

Update: Several local news outlets are now reporting the alleged possible shooter at Allegan High School is 15-year-old Mya Nicole Barron. According to 57th District Court records, Barron was arraigned on Sept. 25, at 11:30 am, in Allegan County Courtroom D with Hon. Christopher Burnett, presiding. Additionally, she is scheduled for a PCC on Th. Oct. 2 at 1 pm, CTRM D, again with Judge Burnett. Her attorney is listed as Chad Catalino, Director of Allegan County Public Defender's Office ; Allegan County Chief Prosecutor, Micheal Villar is named as Prosecutor.

Arrest made in Hopkins cockfighting incident

By Jordan Wilcox
Assistant Publisher

On Tuesday, September 23rd, 37-year-old Edin Dilson Rodas of Hopkins Township was arraigned in the 57th District Court on five felony charges related to cockfighting. Rodas and his wife own property just south of Hopkins, at 2534 23rd Street, where on Saturday, July 26th, residents were startled by the sounds of injured roosters in distress. − Sounds that were later attributed to an ongoing illegal cockfighting ring.

Cockfighting is a blood sport where two gamecocks, or roosters, are forced to fight to the death for the entertainment and gambling of spectators. The birds are typically drugged for aggression, weighted, and outfitted with bladed weapons. It's outlawed in all 50 states, but is still viewed by some groups as part of their cultural heritage and a deeply rooted tradition. In Michigan, it's a felony that can carry up to four years in prison.

Showing Animals Respect and Kindness (SHARK) and Animal Wellness Action are two activist groups pushing for the end of cockfighting nationwide. According to Wayne Pacelle, president of Animal Wellness Action, both groups operate complex networks of informants who alert them of such events and employ undercover drone surveillance and online research of the illegal operations.

Steve Hindi, founder and president of SHARK, said that the Hopkins tip came through his group's anonymous hotline.

After receiving the tip, SHARK quickly sent a drone up in the air, capturing footage that they released on their Facebook page. The video shows criminals bringing live birds in for the fight, then bringing the dead birds out, and numerous live birds being violently handled and thrown into a wheelbarrow with dying birds, while getting savagely attacked and mutilated with various instruments.

Both groups also contacted the Allegan County Sheriff's Office (ACSO) multiple times that day, but were told that "they didn't have enough officers to respond," and have known about the "illegal cockfighting pit for a couple weeks now."

This response enraged Hindi and Pacelle. Hindi questioned why they hadn't already raided the cockfight and said that "they should have brought officers in from other agencies if they needed extra manpower."

When asked for comment by the Detroit Free Press, Undersheriff Michael Larson acknowledged that "the initial response was not what we had hoped for," but that the police response was " not malicious or intentionally negligent."

After the initial controversy, all three groups launched an extensive investigation to "immediately investigate, identify, and charge anyone who participated in these crimes."

The investigation led to Rodas, a native of San Carlos Sija, Guatemala, who later moved to Michigan and graduated from a local high school and Grand Valley State University. He and his wife bought the Hopkins Township property in 2021.

According to an ACSO press release, Rodas has been charged with three felony counts of fighting animals, one felony count of "animals fighting/equipment", and one felony count of third-degree killing/torturing animals.

His bond was set at $5000 cash or surety, and the case remains under investigation as additional suspects are being identified.

In a previous interview with WWMT News Channel 3, Hindi stated that he personally hopes anyone involved with this is "imprisoned for a very long time because they are a cancer to any society that they're part of. They need some serious, serious, long-term mental counseling."

The Allegan County Jail is NOT housing ICE detainees

By Elizabeth Ferszt
Contributing Writer

Contrary to what Allegan residents may be reading online, for example at the Facebook page of Allegan Speak Up, a liberal-leaning group, Allegan County Jail is not housing ICE detainees. Allegan Speak Up stated in a post earlier this week that "right now, as you read this, there are likely immigrants sitting in Allegan County Jail, not for local charges, but for ICE."

Allegan Speak Up further accuses the jail of colluding with ICE (Immigration and Customs Enforcement), in agreeing to "detainers" — "instructions to keep people locked up longer than the law normally allows, and Allegan County has been obeying." The group also accuses the jail of secrecy, cover-up, refusing FOIA requests, and "'disappearing' people."

However, Allegan County Undersheriff, Mike Larsen stated in an email on 9/26 that they "are not housing any ICE detainees, nor have we ever."

"If we make an arrest that results in ICE placing a hold, they have 48 hours excluding holidays and weekends to pick the individual up from our facility," Larsen explained.

When asked where the rumor may have started that the county jail had become an ICE detention center, Larsen stated, "I have no idea where this claim may have come from."

Other jails in Michigan practice the same 48-hour hold policy, which is called WSO or Warrant Service Officer. Jackson County, for example, uses the same procedure, but Jackson County Sheriff Gary Schuette stated back in April that "this only pertains to people who have first been arrested on a criminal charge, are in our jail for that offense, and then also have another warrant in the law enforcement database (LEIN) through ICE."

"We don't ask immigration status as part of the booking process," said Schuette.

Deputies investigate fatal accident in Overisel Twp

By John Raffel
Correspondent

PAW PAW — Allegan Central Dispatch received a 911 phone call on Sept. 30 around 6:56 a.m.in regards to a personal injury accident at 46th St and 140th Ave in Overisel Township.

Preliminary investigation shows a southbound sedan on 46th St failed to stop at the signed intersection and was struck by a west bound SUV on 140th Ave. During this portion of the investigation, speed appears to be a factor.

The male driver and sole occupant of the sedan was pronounced deceased on scene. The female driver and sole occupant of the SUV received injuries that resulted medical care at a local hospital. The scene is still under investigation and names have not been released do to notifications that need to be made.

The area of 47th St to 45th St between 140th Ave is currently shut down for accident reconstruction, please avoid this area during this time.

ARC fundraising dinner, auction raises over $57k

By Gari Voss & Roger Bird

The Arc of Allegan County, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, works to ensure the dignity and inclusion of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities throughout Allegan County.

The Arc invited all of its supporters to join in Fall in Love with The Arc 2025. This fundraising dinner and silent auction event assists in providing support for services and activities dedicated to individuals and their families within the Allegan County community.

The event highlighted The Arc's many services in the areas of advocacy, recreation, learning, support and employment for those with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Those in attendance enjoyed multiple dinner stations featuring delicious food from all the Gun Lake Casino restaurants, amazing silent auction items, and additional surprises.

The Gun Casino event room was a Full House. Business owners like Steve Tibbits (Tibbitts Financial Consulting) and Will Walker (Broken Arrow Recycle and Allegan City councilmember) were in attendance. Gary Ellis, who has been associated with the Arc through his son and his time as a teacher in the Allegan Public Schools, continues to support the organization's mission and efforts. Plus, Lauren Hunt-VanderPloeg from the Allegan County Community Foundation that contributes to the Arc enjoyed an evening of food, entertainment, and games.

Individuals and groups unable to join us in person still found ways to support The Arc and its programming. Those in attendance checked out the silent auction items and held some friendly competition until the winners were decided. The auction had an online component that opened bidding 8:00am on Tuesday, Sept. 16 and ended at 7:30pm on Sept. 18th. Bidders did not need to be present at the event to be the highest bidder.

Roger Bird, Executive Director of the Arc, shared that the fundraiser has thus far raised $57,153.47, with donations still being accepted. A simple way to donate is to go to https://arcallegan.org/ and click on the "support" tab or send a check to The Arc

Bird uses the tag line, "Diversity is being invited to the party, inclusion is being asked to dance." The beauty of the Arc of Allegan County is that it asks every individual to dance, and so many across Allegan County join in the dance.

RECYCLE, RECYCLE, RECYCLE: PROTECT THE ENVIRONMENT

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT ABOUT HOW MUCH TRASH WE GENERATE??

Eventually, OUR future generations will be forced to live amongst OUR trash.

→ Imagine if every family of four disposed of 8 bags of trash per week →→ that would be 416 bags per year for just one family →→→ and, in the United States alone, where the current population is 470.85 million people →→→→ that would be 941.7 million trash bags per WEEK going into landfills!

MAKE A DIFFERENCE TODAY!

DID YOU KNOW.....

According to the World Wildlife Fund International Report, "Bottled water may be no safer or healthier than tap water, while selling for up to 1,000 times the price."

IN FACT,

"there are more standards regulating tap water in Europe and the United States than those applied to the bottled water industry."

RECYCLE AS MANY PRODUCTS AS YOU CAN....

- Styrofoam
- Plastics
- Magazines

THE U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that about 75% of trash could be recycled while only about 30% is being recycled.

Americans throw away 25,000,000 plastic beverage bottles every hour!

According to Greenwaste, Americans generate 21.5 million tons of food residuals annually. If this food waste were composted instead of being sent to landfills, the resulting reduction in greenhouse gas emissions would be equivalent to taking more than two million cars off the road!

Allegan Player's presentation delight audiences

By Gari Voss

September 26, 27, and 28, 2025, the Allegan Community Players brought The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe to the stage at the Griswold Auditorium. Those who took a couple hours of their day to enjoy the dramatization scripted by Joseph Robinette and directed by Vicki and Drew Isola were delighted by the acting and amazed at the technical aspects.

From the time Lucy met Mr. Tumnus at the Lamp Post to the defeat of the White Witch, the high points of C.S. Lewis' book stayed true to form. Projections created by Ryan Burza moved the audience to different locations in Narnia. Simple but extremely effective properties drew the audience into the homes of Mr. Tumnus and the Beavers, into the forest that was losing its snow, and from the Stone Table that cracked after Aslan's death to the battle at Baruna to the hunting of the White Stag and back to the Lamp Post.

If the technical aspects were not enough to create the story, the costuming coordinated by Amanda Adams and supplemented by others was marvelous. Aslan's lion head was amazing, as was the centaur complete with the horse body. Head "décor" helped identify the many characters.

The characters carried the storyline and emotions. Theia Rhude as Lucy gave the wonderful feeling of a sincere, caring girl while Jay Joynes as Edmund displayed a self-centered older brother. Molieigh DeMann as Susan was the perfect older sister who wanted to keep Lucy in reality while finding that things were not as they originally looked. Xavier Paris as the oldest brother took his position as defender of his siblings graciously.

Kudos to Lane Bright as Tumnus, Kassidy Bright as Mrs. Beaver, Mason Haas as Mr. Beaver, Kyrstin Herren as the Unicorn, and Christopher Adams as the Centaur. The supporting actors covered Aslan's followers and friends along with crossing the line to the dark side of the White Witch.

On the dark side, Whitney Ehresman crossed from nice and enticing to the devious White Witch who relied on a completely believable and fierce Mike Leonard as Fenris Ulf the captain of the guard.

Special acknowledgement goes to Vanessa Rice who wore the costume of Aslan and mimed each and every line delivered by David Clement Horton, who did the voice-over from his hidden location.

Father Christmas delivers necessary gifts to the children and declares that Christmas has returned during the Allegan Community Players' production of The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe Sept. 26-28, 2025. Photo: G. Voss

Smiles came to many faces as St. Nicholas appeared as Father Christmas who brought the realization that the Witch's winter was disappearing, and the four children of Adam and Eve were presented with special gifts.

Nathan DeCoux can be thanked for creating wonderful combat choreography. With so many swords and knives present among a stage full of actors, safety was extremely important. Creating action scenes with a multitude of bodies and weapons takes special planning and practice.

The Allegan community can be extremely delighted to have so many talented actors, directors and technicians who can bring such loved stories to the stage. The saddest part is that the production lasted only one weekend.

Beautify Pullman to hold fundraiser at Fenn Valley

By Gari Voss

It has been a year since Bobby Flynn took over the Paramount Casino, and it has been a good year! After purchasing the casino, Bobby quickly renovated the lobby and lounge in order to make the Paramount the largest and most extravagant casino on the Las Vegas strip. Bobby spared no expense in order to have the casino live up to it's name! In celebration of the casino's face-lift, a huge party is planned. There will be no limits at the gambling tables, insuring that the casino remains a hotbed of activity.

The Anniversary Party has attracted those who want to spend and win, and those who already have a lot of wealth and stature in society. Senator Justice loves to make his appearance. And Las Vegas mogul Bobby Flynn has found some of the wealthiest men in Vegas including Ace High and Full House Frank.

In addition, there will be a myriad of hot-handed gamblers and card sharks along with entertainers, and the casino staff. The only guests not yet accounted for are those who need to purchase their tickets to Murder in Sin City. The Mystery Dinner Theater will be on Saturday, October 25, 2025, from 6:30-10pm at Fenn Valley Vineyards in Fennville.

Along with being witness to the goings on at the Casino, party goers will have a wonderful dinner, participate in raffles, win prizes, and try their hand at Blackjack, Roulette and a Mondy Wheel.

Ron Short will be performing as Elvis while other characters offer clues to who loses their life, by whom, and why.

All proceeds will go to Beautify Pullman to continue their efforts to make Pullman a fun, safe place to enjoy friends and family. Tickets can be purchased at www.beautifypullman.org. For additional information or to become a character in the play, contact trish@beautifypullman.org.

Car Care Tips Every Driver Should Know

Regular vehicle maintenance is essential for safety, efficiency, and longevity. While modern cars are built to withstand heavy use, neglecting basic upkeep often leads to costly repairs and inconvenient breakdowns.

One of the most important habits for any driver is to monitor tire health. Proper inflation not only improves gas mileage but also ensures better handling and braking. Tires should be inspected routinely for signs of uneven wear, cracks, or low tread, which can compromise road safety.

Checking and changing engine oil on schedule is another vital step in keeping a car running smoothly. Clean oil reduces friction and prevents overheating. Drivers should also pay attention to other fluids, such as coolant, brake fluid, and transmission fluid, as they play equally critical roles in performance.

The battery deserves regular attention as well. Corrosion on terminals or slow engine turnover are early indicators of trouble. A simple cleaning of connections or testing the charge can prevent an unexpected stall.

Brakes remain one of the most crucial systems to monitor. Squealing noises, grinding, or a spongy brake pedal should never be ignored. Addressing these symptoms early protects both passengers and the vehicle itself.

Routine cleaning, inside and out, is often underestimated but has lasting effects. Road salt, dirt, and debris can accelerate rust, while a clean interior reduces wear on upholstery and electronics.

Finally, seasonal checks prepare a vehicle for changing conditions. Winter may require stronger windshield wiper blades and a review of antifreeze levels, while summer heat puts added stress on cooling systems and tires.

Consistent maintenance not only saves money but also promotes safer driving. For motorists, staying attentive to these simple care practices is the surest way to keep their vehicles dependable for years to come.

Elected leaders- Do the right thing, eliminate earmarks

MIKE'S MUSINGS

MIKE WILCOX
■ PUBLISHER ■

One of my often rants is the use of earmarks or pork barrel, as we used to call them, projects sneaked into the federal or state budget at the last minute, to benefit a particular constituency. It happens every year as we get down to the wire on approving a budget. This year will not be an exception.

Lawmakers at the state and federal level have until midnight Sept. 30 to avert a partial government shutdown. But we've all heard this before and partial government shutdowns are not unusual. Eventually both sides of the aisle will come to terms. They just need to negotiate a few more earmarks- say it isn't so.

Sometimes earmarks can be as small as $100k going to a particular legislator's pet interest. Sometimes they are much greater such as the $25 million that was allocated a couple of years ago for the Clare Health Park that is now under state investigation. Almost always the earmarks are granted without competing bids and very little oversight.

At the federal level, earmarks were banned for a decade before resurfacing a few years ago under new transparency rules. In Michigan, earmarks have ballooned in recent budgets, sometimes running into hundreds of millions of dollars. We are told this money helps communities. But the truth is, earmarks distort priorities, weaken accountability, and undermine trust in government.

The danger is not that every earmarked project is useless. Some clearly serve a public purpose: a small-town water system, a needed bridge, or a community center. The danger is that earmarks are chosen based on political clout rather than merit. When public dollars are steered toward the well-connected instead of the most pressing needs, citizens begin to suspect government works for insiders, not taxpayers.

Michigan lawmakers have tried to polish the process. The House now requires earmark requests to be filed earlier in the year. Legislators must provide more detail about who benefits and how the money will be used. Grants to for-profit companies are banned. These are worthwhile steps, but they don't solve the core problem: earmarks are inherently political.

No matter how transparent the process is, earmarks reward influence. They favor lawmakers with seniority or connections. They elevate private lobbying over open competition. And they make budgeting less about the greatest public need and more about cutting deals behind closed doors.

Michigan's constitution already provides a check: any "local or private" appropriation is supposed to require a two-thirds supermajority vote in both chambers. But lawmakers have skirted this rule by burying earmarks inside massive omnibus budget bills, passing them with a simple majority. This practice not only violates the spirit of the constitution, it erodes public confidence in the fairness of our laws. If legislators want to fund a local or private project, they should have the courage to secure the votes honestly.

If Michigan and Washington truly want to end the earmark game, changes are essential.

First, enforce constitutional and statutory safeguards. In Michigan, that means requiring a supermajority for local or private spending and forbidding earmarks from being hidden in giant budget packages. At the federal level, Congress should consider stronger thresholds — even separate votes — for any earmark.

Second, replace earmarks with competitive review. Infrastructure, education, and community programs should be funded through open application processes, judged by clear criteria. That way, projects succeed based on merit, not muscle.

Some argue that earmarks grease the wheels of democracy, giving legislators a reason to compromise on big spending bills. That may be true, but it's a poor excuse for waste and favoritism. Democracy is not strengthened by trading favors. It is strengthened by open debate, honest budgeting, and public trust.

Earmarks aren't just about money. They're about integrity. Every time a lawmaker sneaks a project into the budget, voters lose a little more faith that government serves the people equally. Until we end the earmark culture both Lansing and Washington will keep writing checks that weaken our budgets and our democracy.

I've written this a dozen times, but no one is listening. I implore our leaders to end earmarks now. The time has come to stop playing games with the public's pocketbook.

Life as Performance Art

G CORWIN STOPPEL

Prior to the Presidential election of 1932, Will Rogers and Franklin Roosevelt were standing in front of a microphone at a public event. Of the two, Rogers was the better known and held in higher esteem by most Americans. "Franklin," he began, "and I can call you Franklin now, but if you win the election, then I'll address you as Mr. President." He continued with a few of his jokes, most of them at the expense of Mr. Roosevelt and other politicians.

Roosevelt, as we know, won the election of 1932, and Rogers was true to his word. FDR became, "Mr. President," as a matter of good etiquette and respect, but the political jokes continued.

More than one person thought it was inappropriate for any sort of political humor in the midst of the Great Depression and when the trio of dictators, Mussolini of Italy, Hitler in Germany, and Stalin in Russia, were threatening to the peace in Europe and North America. It was as if they were saying, "We need to be serious, and there is no room for humor anymore."

Rogers replied when he said he believed political humor was always appropriate, and even necessary. "You see, over in Russia if you poke a little fun at Stalin he gives you a one-way rail ticket to Siberia. The way I see things, as long as we can poke a little humor at our politicians, hope remains for our country and form of government. Lose that humor, and I don't think we have a future."

I agree. I think most of us agree with Will Roger's comments from over 90 years ago. Some of America's greatest men and women have followed in that grand tradition of having a laugh at the expense of politicians. It is the fodder of many stand-up comedians, and the media. A few politicians, including elected officials offered occasional doses of self-deprecating humor. Sometimes, it appears that the politicians enjoy it. On candidate said she believed her campaign was making progress when she was roasted on a late-night talk show. As long as it is non-threatening, it is a true safety valve for our nation.

The challenge we have right now is that we are losing our national sense of humor. Some say we have already lost it. That might lead to a very dangerous and misfortunate situation. It probably began with political correctness where, if someone or some group did not the ideas of another person, they would work to 'cancel' them. Then, it morphed into very widespread trend.

If Person A did not have the right message, mentally hold the right beliefs, or subscribe to the right doctrines, at least to Person B or Group C, they were socially cancelled. Efforts were made to deprive them of their income; their friends were warned to drop the individual or also suffer the consequences. Their lives were threatened.

This divisiveness has recently taken a new twist after the shooting of Charlie Kirk. Attempts at any sort of humor about his death fell flat, and rightfully so. A murder is never an acceptable subject for it. However, it very quickly went beyond a rejection of stupid attempts at laughter.

Soon after, there were dire warnings that those who challenged his ideas and philosophy must be arrested and punished. Those who object to ICE immigration raids or challenge the current administration have been called political threats and even traitors.

Political humor, that essential safety valve for our national life, criticism, disagreeing with the accepted or approved public doctrines were forbidden.

A growing number of people, according to several surveys and opinion polls, believed that political violence is justified, and civil action and obstruction against members of the opposition is acceptable. Calls to tone down the harsh rhetoric from all sides and all parties have been either rejected or ignored.

All of this, from the early days of cancel culture to the threats of political intimidation today, lead to a basic theme of attempt by one group or individual to silence those who disagree with their rhetoric or doctrine.

As I write this column, it is the 17th of September, also known as Constitution Day. Thirty-nine delegates from twelve of the thirteen states (Rhode Island did not send a delegation) carefully and laboriously framed the Constitution. Just when it seemed their work was done, there was a demand for what we now call the Bill of Rights, or the first Ten Amendments to the document. When that work was done, and with the assurance that the Amendments would be ratified as well, we had a new nation. We can take quiet comfort that we have the oldest national constitution in the world.

Reflecting over the Constitution, but especially the Bill of Rights, I am sure that each of us has our favorite. Mine is the first, and I believe, the most important. It guarantees freedom of speech, assembly, and religion. They are included because this makes it impossible for an elected or appointed official to order an individual to hold specific ideas

I like it because as an ordained cleric, no government official can tell me what I must or may not say from the pulpit. No one can outlaw the Episcopal Church or any other church or religion. As a newspaper writer and a published author, I don't have to take my manuscript to a government censor and ask permission to publish my work.

You and I get to decide what we are going to read, what social media we will follow, which sport team (or even sports) we want to follow. We believe we can trust the statistics used by financial advisors and planners, medical personnel of all types, along with others - rather than be anxious that numbers might be bent to fit someone's agenda or doctrine. We can work where we choose, plant our own garden, and get up or go to bed without following someone's orders. If you are an adult, you get to decide about eating beats, sardines, or tomato aspic. That decision is for you, not something you get to impose on everyone else.

And just to make sure the government does not try to ride roughshod over us, there is that Second Amendment to add considerable muscle to the First.

There have been three major revolutions in the modern western world: the United States, France, and Russia. After each of them, political leaders organized a constitution. Two of the three were fiascos. In France, the Reign of Terror began shortly after the Revolution, and thousands of people were publicly executed on the guillotine; thousands more died of other causes. Russia overthrew the Czar and Kerensky organized a new but short-lived government. Lenin and Trotsky waged war against their enemies, but after Lenin died Stalin turned on former friends in another war that resulted in death by starvation by millions of Ukrainians. A few years later came the Purges when intellectuals, clergy, poets, and others were executed or sent to Siberia.

Only the United States maintained its loyalty to the Constitution, even when it was messy and challenging. Different interpretations of the document were negotiated, sometimes with compromise and sometimes with a decision from the Supreme Court. Not once was there an attempted military coup.

Ninety years ago, as America was not really pulling out of the Great Depression, President Roosevelt took extraordinary measures to get things working. The Bank Holiday followed by the creation of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, making certain our financial system was honest and solid. The WPA project-built roads, state parks, and hired artists and writers to travel the country to tell America's story. The Civilian Conservation Corp hired hundreds of thousands of young men to tend our national forest and parks. They learned discipline which served the free world well when the dictators went to war. The CCC also mandated that the men would send some of their salary back home, rebuilding the economy.

There were people who didn't like it, who claimed it was a social or communist plot. That led to the infamous Father Coughlin of Detroit who preached a merger of fascism and Christianity until he had his radio microphone wires clipped. And the Supreme Court decreed that some of the WPA programs violated the Constitution.

Remember what did not happen: Coughlin and his followers were not sent to concentration camps or stood up against a wall. Roosevelt didn't take revenge, although he did threaten to expand the Supreme Court by additional new members - of his choosing, of course.

We often speak of the "Spirit of 76" but let's not lose sight of the significance of this day in 1787. And may we all remain vigilant to defend the Constitution from all foreign and domestic enemies who would seek to destroy this country.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Reader claims insane cheer for Trump

Editor,

Last week Trump and his aides were about to take a tour of an insane asylum.

As they pulled up, a large crowd started cheering and shouting his name and "Make America Great Again".

But his aides noticed a group of about three or four people standing quietly off to the side.

One of them asked why they were so quiet and standing away from the group.

"Oh", one of them replied. "Those are the patients. We're just the doctors."

Book Review: Human-ish

The Bookworm Sez

"Humanish: What Talking to Your Cat or Naming Your Car Reveals about the Uniquely Human Need to Humanize"
by Justin Gregg

c.2025, Little, Brown
$30.00 • 304 pages

By Terri Schlichenmeyer

Cognizant of it or not, most humans anthropomorphize and author Justin Gregg makes doing so easy to understand. He's not afraid to use big words (an-thro-puh-MOR-fize) and real scientific terms, and he's not at all reluctant to treat readers like intelligent beings. There are plenty of amusing stories in this book, tales of research, business, and personal anecdotes, and lots of side-notes that make learning enjoyable. You may, in fact, find yourself laughing, too: Gregg is thorough but not stiff, impish but not silly, and he can get serious when it's appropriate – which is to say that this book is more than just a lighthearted romp through psychology or behavioral science.

If you feel bad for abandoned toys, or if you're sure your cell phone hates you, then ask your cat if "Humanish" is a book you need to read. Or if you're just up for a super-fun science book that's not hard to grasp, plug into it.

All the books the Bookworm reviews here are available at the sponsor of this column:

Allegan District Library

Is that fire plug smiling at you?

It sure looks like it. Two eyes, open grin, it's even wearing a jaunty little cap - or at least that's what your eyes see, if you squint. This isn't the first time your brain has tricked you into seeing what's not really there so smile back – who'll care? - then read the new book "Humanish" by Justin Gregg and you won't feel so silly about it.

Does your pet love you like you love him?

That's a question scientists wrestle with because, well, let's face it, you want an answer - but imagining that Poochie is smitten, pretending that he talks to you, dressing him up, all those things are signs of indulging in anthropomorphism. Such things used to horrify scientists but today, there's some proof that anthropomorphizing might benefit us.

And for what it's worth, says Gregg, the answer to Cuddles' affection is yes, but.

Roughly speaking, anthropomorphism is described as assigning human behavior or feelings to things that are not human, or acting as if nonhuman things have human feelings or emotions. You probably anthropomorphized as a child, with a toy. You may still do it with your computer ("It hates me!") or by naming your car, for instance.

We are triggered to anthropomorphize by three things: movement, eyes, and language. Different cultures anthropomorphize differently, and our personal backgrounds affect how much we might do it. And we do it, says Gregg, for two main reasons: It helps us stay connected, socially, and it helps us predict that which is unpredictable.

Anthropomorphize your pet, for instance, and you might call his behavior "love."

Anthropomorphizing, Gregg says, impacts our fears. Doing it can make someone feel safer or happier, but there's a fine line we walk between anthropomorphization and reality – which means that yes, attributing too much human emotion on a nonhuman creature or thing can be overdone.

And that can become a problem…

Do you thank Siri or Alexa for information? Knee-jerk apologize to benches you accidentally bump into? Read "Humanish," and you'll understand why.

Peek at the Past

From the pages of The Allegan News and The Allegan County News and Gazette:

Bachelor's will ruled invalid here: Because he neglected to have his will witnessed, Charles Collins' bequests to three good friends will have to be ignored, Probate Judge Harold Weston ruled last week.

The 80-year-old Allegan bachelor died last week, leaving an estate of cash, securities and old coins valued at more than $12,000. In his will, he left $2,500 each to two sisters and $500 to another Allegan resident. The will, however, did not provide for disposal of the residue of the estate.

The money was in a safe deposit box at the local bank, according to instructions in the will, which was found among his belongings.

A life-long resident of Allegan, Collins is survived by only an uncle, Cyril Collins, of Allegan, and six cousins, who will receive the bulk of the estate.

Annette knows no handicap when it comes to riding horses: When Annette Miedema climbed on the gentle horse Wee Willy last week, the Wayland girl was understandably a bit tense.

It didn't take lone, however, before she began getting the feel of Wee Willy's walk and it wasn't long after that that a smile eased across Annette's face.

Annette's first experience on horseback differed somewhat from the first riding lesson of other youngsters: she's handicapped.

And she's the first handicapped youngster in the county to participate in a brand new 4-H program aimed at bolstering the handicapped child's physical well-being and morale.

Guiding Annette on that first ride was Nancy Mapes, a rural Allegan resident who's devoted to the new program and is the first county resident to complete the rigorous five-week course required to be certified to teach the handicapped how to ride.

Old fire damage complicates Robinson House work: Once workers began stripping out the old roof prior to building a new roof at the Robinson house in Allegan, they discovered more of a job than they had originally counted on.

According to Allegan County Administrator Kim Higgs, the contractor found the sub-roof had been damaged by fire.

"They said it broke up like charcoal," Higgs said.

During the county board's committee of the whole session Thursday, Sept. 28, he recommended extra expenditures hiking the project by up to 65 percent. The total cost stayed under the second lowest bid from roofers, but county commissioners did not quietly issue a check.

The county leases the Robinson house at 705 Marshall St. for use by Allegan County Community Mental Health. To make the building livable for at least two years until ACCMH moves to another facility, the county invited bids for re-roofing this summer.

Edward J. Walczewski of Grand Rapids won the bid at $26,850 in August. The next lowest big came in at about $54,000.

Higgs proposed to spend additional funds not to exceed $18,000 for drywall, insulation, masonry and electrical to fix the fire-damaged sub-roof. That would bring the final bill to $44,850 maximm.

District 7 Commissioner Don Black reacted in surprise. "We bought a fire-damaged building?" he said.

Sediment from Morrow Lake may be headed to Allegan: Nature lovers and fishermen have sounded the alarm. Procedures being followed to repair the spillway gates beside the Morrow Dam have released sediment with unknown contaminants into the Kalamazoo River. Evidence can be seen in the form of black sludge or muck along the banks and islands from the Dam through Kalamazoo and further downstream.

Morrow Dam in Comstock Township has provided electric power since 1941 when the 14 foot dam was "originally constructed to create a reservoir to provide cooling water for a coal burning power plant. It was later retrofitted to produce a modest level of electric power."

The structure might be considered the line of demarcation between the upstream areas cleaned up after the Enbridge Oil Spill in Talmadge Creek southwest of Marshall, Michigan in 2010, and the 80 miles of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) cleanup of the Allied Paper Inc./Portage Creek/Kalamazoo River Superfund Site from Morrow Dam to Lake Michigan.

In November 2019, Eagle Creek Renewable Energy/STS began working with Michigan's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Michigan Department of Environment, Great Lakes, and Energy (EGLE), especially the Water Resources Division. A plan was designed to draw down Morrow Lake to facilitate the repair of the two spillway gates beside the dam. At that time, it was anticipated that the project would take about four months, from November 2019 through February 2020.

The first phase was to lower Morrow Lake at a rate of about 4-6 inches each day. The regulated release would prevent large amounts of sediment behind the dam from entering the river. In a June 2020 report from WMUK, Devin Bloom a biologist at Western Michigan University believed that a daily "pulse of sedimentation coming through the river is not a problem. Enormous amounts of [release] for sustained periods of time is a problem," he said.

Once the required lake depth was attained and the spillway gates were more closely inspected, contractors determined that the existing gates could not be repaired, but must be replaced. Derek Haroldson, EGLE Water Resources Division, and Jody Smet, Vice President Regulatory Affairs with Eagle Creek, corroborated this and went on to explain that these gates must be specially fabricated to ensure the safety of humans, animals and the environment along the river. This extended the four-month project through the summer and into fall 2020.

Dozens celebrate their recoveries at Riverfront fest

Art of Recovery returns to the Riverfront
By Gari Voss

The weather showed summer on Saturday, September 27, 2025, but the temperature did not dim the celebration on the Riverfront Plaza in Allegan. Those who had worked to recover from abuse of different types shared their stories with the couple hundred people who had come to help applaud their efforts.

DJ Shorty helped set the picnic-like atmosphere. Along with presentations by those who have overcome obstacles and/or continue to work toward recovery, Donald McDonald, national peer advocate, MSW, and Technical Expert Lead for JBS International, which is connected to OnPoint's HRSA MAT grant, congratulated all who were on the road to recovery, and all those who support their efforts. McDonald has faced his own demons and is now thriving in sustained recovery from severe mental and substance use disorders. In his role with JBS International, McDonald provides training and technical assistance to HRSA-funded rural consortia like OnPoint. His guidance assists in developing prevention, harm reduction, treatment, and recovery capacity.

Lauren Todaro, OnPoint's Community-based Recovery Services Program Manager, attributes the success of the Art of Recovery to the awesome OnPoint Peer Team of Nicole Aldrich, Eric Hoffman, Elisha Ash, Kara Trainor, and Angie Messinger who organized the event. The recovery coaches in attendance have provided support to those at all levels of recovery. During the event, team members could be found running the OnPoint table to distribute food tickets and raffle tickets, answering questions, and chatting with those in attendance.

With a big heart and an understanding of the concerted effort required to go into long-term recovery, Sober Eats served about 200 free dinners of two tacos with chips and water for the gathering crowd.

Faces in the Crowd

By G C Stoppel

This week's question: When you were growing up, who was your favorite author or favorite book?

-Young woman near the Fennville Hardware Store: "Oh, that's easy. JK Rawlings and the Harry Potter books. Any of them; all of them! One summer I read all of them, one after the other."

-Older woman with her: "Well, when I was growing up, my mother - your grandmother - had all of the Nancy Drew mysteries. She let me read them during the summer and in no time I wanted to be her and solve mysteries and have adventures."

-Woman near the Fennville grocery store: "I don't know who wrote it, but I still remember reading the Velveteen Rabbit. Oh, and the Beatrix Potter stories. Her drawings were so wonderful. I should read them again."

-Man, same location: "Well, I don't want you giving out my name, but when I was younger I really admired President Reagan. He was my hero. Still is. When I found out his favorite book was by Harold Bell Wright, called That Printer of Udell's so I got hold of a copy. I read it and liked it. Pretty solid stuff about what America used to be like still could be."

-Woman near the Allegan Public Library: Big smile, "'The Great Gatsby.' I was just meant to live in the 1920s. I really was. I would have been a flapper, a really great flapper."

-Man, same location: "Well, my father, he liked to read True Detective magazine and a few others like it. Once in a while I would, should we say 'borrow' one to read. Later on, I got hooked on Mickey Spillane."

-Woman near the Allegan County Courthouse, "My guilty pleasure are romance novels. My aunt loaned me one by Barbara Cortland, and I was hooked. Some of my girlfriends are, too, so we swap books all the time. They're fun."

-Man near the Post Office: "I wasn't so good at reading when I was in school, so not much. Television works for me or streaming on the internet. My wife, now she's a reader."

-Older woman near Allegan City Hall: Giggles. "You may think I am silly, but I love reading travel books: This country or anywhere in the world. I read every one of them I find. And this is really dumb, but I like studying maps. I never got to go to many places, but I've always wanted to, so now I read about places."

-Friend with her: "You're going to love this since I know you grew up in Minnesota, but my favorite author is Garrison Keillor [Prairie Home Radio show]. I started by listening to his program when he'd talk about Lake Woebegone. Then I found out he wrote about it and other books. He's wonderful."

I asked her which book was her favorite and she said "WLT" about a radio station in the Twin Cities in the early 1920s. The call letters stand for With Lettuce and Tomato. They used to broadcast out of a diner and ask people what they were eating."

-Man near Minnie's: "I like history, so there you have it. All types of history. I'm not particular. I've got a mind for it and remember almost everything I read. I'll tell you why I like it: It's in the past, so we know what happened and we got through it, so now we don't have to be worried about it.

-Man near the Huntington Bank: "Mysteries. I started reading them when I was a youngster." Laughs. "My best friend and I took turns being Holmes and Watson. After a while I started reading more and more of them."

Man and his nephew charged in playground arson

By Jason Wesseldyk

The Otsego man facing arson charges in connection to the fire that damaged the wooden playground structure at Northside Park has been identified as Michael Kilbourn.

Kilbourn, 37, appeared in an Allegan courtroom via video on Tuesday, Sept. 23, and was officially charged with third-degree arson and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The arson charge is a felony that carries a maximum sentence of 10 years.

But given Kilhourn's previous convictions, he is being charged as a fourth-time habitual offender. That means he could face life in prison if convicted.

A bond of $15,000 was initially discussed, but District Court Judge ultimately set it at $200,000 given Kilbourn's criminal history, the life sentence he is facing and the fact that he was deemed a "flight risk."

An unnamed minor, how has been identified as Kilbourn's nephew, has also been charged with third-degree arson.

In an interview with News Channel 3, Otsego Fire and Police Director Brad Misner said video obtained from nearby business A&E Electric helped officials identify Kilbourne and his nephew.

Michael Kilbourn

"We had nothing we had no witnesses, no surveillance video at the park," Misner said. "It took the hard work of our detective and the officers that are here banging on doors and talking to business owners and talking to the community. It kind of led us down that road of finding the video."

Kilbourn was already in custody at the Allegan County Jail after turning himself in for other outstanding warrants.

The fire took place shortly after midnight on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

According to court documents, the nephew stated Kilbourn said the pair were going to "burn something" before heading to Northside Park.

Once at the park, Kilbourne pulled several articles of clothing out of a backpack and instructed his nephew to stuff the clothing into the playground structure. Kilbourne also handed his nephew a torch and told him to set the clothes on fire.

The nephew admitted to starting the fire, telling investigators he went along with the plan because he was afraid of his uncle.

"I think the community is going to be happy," Misner said of Kilbourne being in custody. "An individual like that, it just wreaks havoc on a community and he needs to figure out life."

Kilbourne is scheduled to return to court for a probable cause hearing on Thursday, Oct. 2, court documents stated.

Although City of Otsego officials initially feared the playground structure could be a complete loss, it was later determined that the damage was contained to a section measuring approximately 20 feet by 40 feet.

Employees from the City's Department of Public Works removed the damaged section and, after assuring safety, the park was reopened on Thursday, Sept. 4.

Damage was estimated at $45,000, and City officials are working with its insurance company to fast track the claim. The hope is to have the damaged portion replaced at some point in the spring.

Man suffers burns in Plainwell industrial accident

By Jason Wesseldyk

A 25-year-old Plainwell man suffered serious burn injuries following an industrial accident on Wednesday, Sept. 25, according to a release from Plainwell director of Public Safety Kevin Callahan.

At approximately 10:30 a.m., officers from the Plainwell Department of Public Safety responded to reports of an explosion in the 600 block of N. Main Street near 2nd Avenue in Plainwell.

Upon arrival, officers encountered the victim, who "had sustained significant burn injuries, covering nearly half of his body."

A preliminary investigation indicated the explosion and subsequent fire occurred when the victim was operating a plasma cutter in close proximity to flammable chemicals.

According to Callahan, fellow employees acted quickly, extinguishing the fire and rendering aid to the victim until first responders arrived.

The victim was transported to a nearby trauma center for advanced medical treatment.

Despite the seriousness of the injuries, medical personnel have advised the man is expected to recover.

"Our thoughts are with this young man, his family and his loved ones as he begins the road to recovery," Callahan said. "We are grateful for the quick actions of the employees on scene, the dedicated care provided by Plainwell EMS and our first responders, the assistance of the Gun Plain Fire Department and the expertise of the hazmat team in addressing the spill."

The explosion also caused an oil spill. Firefighters deployed a large quantity of oil dry to contain the hazard until a hazardous materials contractor arrived and completed mitigation.

"No foul play is suspected, and the incident remains under investigation," the release stated. "The Plainwell Department of Public Safety will continue working with workplace safety officials to review the circumstances surrounding this accident."

No further information will be released pending the outcome of the investigation, according to Callahan.

Blackhawks claim fourth-straight divisional title

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

WATERVLIET—On Monday, Sept. 29, the Fennville boys soccer team traveled to Watervliet and posted the 6-0 win.

And with that victory, the Blackhawks secured its fourth straight SAC Lakeshore championship.

Angel Villalobos led the charge for Fennville, as he played a role in four of his team's six goals. He scored three of those and assisted on another.

Josue Bahena, meanwhile, added a pair of goals, while Chava Carranza scored one goal and assisted on one.

Jared Delgado, Oswaldo Lopez and Ethan Coffindaffer each chipped in with an assist.

On the defensive end, Dereck Arredondo made two saves in goal for the shutout.

On Wednesday, Sept. 24, the Blackhawks made the short trip to South Haven and secured the 2-1 victory.

Bahena scored in the first half off an assist from Carranza. Villalobos scored in the second half on an assist from Coffindaffer.

Arredondo stayed busy in goal, making six saves.

Tigers place third at conference championship tourney

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

One point.

That's all that separated the second and third place at the SAC/Lakeland Conference Boys Tennis Finals on Friday, Sept. 26.

And it was Kalamazoo Christian that barely edged out host Allegan by a margin of 54.5-53.5 to claim the runner-up spot.

"This placement reflects exactly where we set our goals, pushing for second or third place," Allegan coach Damien Arthur said. "I couldn't be prouder of how our players rose to the challenge."

The Tigers finished with three flight champions. That included Ezra Smith at No. 2 singles.

In the flight finals, Smith bested the Berrien Springs player 1-6, 7-6 (3), 6-4. It was that player's first loss of the season.

The other flight titles belonged to No. 1 doubles Noah Kuebler/Ian Gaulke and No. 2 doubles Oliver Burnett/Wesley Goodspeed.

Kuebler/Gaulke bested Kalamazoo Christian 6-2, 6-2 in the finals, while Burnett/Goodspeed beat Kalamazoo Christian 6-3, 6-2 in the finals.

"Both of those teams delivered strong play to become conference champions," Arthur said.

Another highlight for Arthur was the play of Silas Neldon at No. 1 singles.

Neldon won his first two matches—both in three sets—before falling to Berrien Springs in the finals to finish second.

"Silas fought through a tough draw and earned runner-up, establishing himself as the second-best player in the conference," Arthur said.

No. 4 singles John DeLaet finished third, No. 3 doubles Gage Mashburn/Charlie Morris finished fifth and No. 3 singles Carson Woodhams and No. 4 doubles Sully Morgan/Noah Willett finished sixth.

"This was a very strong showing for a young team," Arthur said. "While we missed a few early opportunities, we capitalized later in the tournament and showed resilience across the board. If even one of those tight three-setters had gone our way, we'd be celebrating a runner-up finish.

"The fight, growth and composure our players showed makes me excited about where we are heading."

Prior to the league tournament, the Tigers hosted and beat Bridgman 8-0 on Tuesday, Sept. 23, to close out the regular season.

Winning at singles for Allegan were: No. 1 Neldon 6-3, 3-6, 10-5; No. 2 Smith 6-0, 6-0; No. 3 Woodhams 6-0, 6-0; and No. 4 DeLaet 6-1, 6-1.

Doubles winner for the Tigers were: No. 1 Kuebler/Gaulke 6-0, 6-0; No. 2 Goodspeed/Burnett by default; No. 3 Mashburn/Morris by default; and No. 4 Willett/Morgan by default.

OTSEGO—The Division 2 girls race at the Bulldog Invitational on Saturday, Sept. 27, featured 25 teams.

And it was host Otsego who finished atop that list, as its 69 points was 22 points better than runner-up Holland Christian.

Martin football stays unbeaten at 5-0

By Jason Wesseldyk

EAU CLAIRE—Win with class.

That's been a focus for the Martin football team.

And Clippers coach Brad Blauvelt thought his team did just that in his team's 62-0 victory host Eau Claire on Friday, Sept. 26.

"I was very proud of the way our guys handled the lopsided win," said Blauvelt, whose Clippers stayed unbeaten at 5-0. "I thought we asserted ourselves as the dominant team early and carried that throughout the game.

"Eau Claire did a good job trying to expose some things on defense and we adjusted quickly."

Quarterback Haylen Buell once again led the charge on both sides of the ball for Martin.

Offensively, Buell ran 10 times for 110 yards and one touchdown. He also went 7-of-9 passing for 158 yards and three touchdowns.

Weson Elkins was on the receiving end of two of those TD tosses, with Bryer Watson also catching a touchdown pass.

Defensively, Buell joined Isaac Suk with four tackles—tied for the team lead—and an interception. Buell's interception resulted in a touchdown of 65 yards.

"Haylen continues to play at a different level," Blauvelt said. "Early in the game, he hit their tight end on a crossing route. They dropped a bunch of passes after that over the middle. His pick 6 was also a great football play."

Buell's younger brother Zaiden—a freshman—also had four tackles. Mani Smit had his first interception, while Anderson Keeler forced a fumble and Peyton Schuring Harris had a sack.

"It was nice to get a shutout," Blauvelt said.

Seth Toris chipped in offensively with 80 yards on eight carries to go with 33 yards on two catches.

"Bryer Watson, Weson Elkins and Seth Toris have really been great compliments to Haylen on offense," Blauvelt said. "All have big play ability.

"We challenged the offensive line at halftime, and they played well in the third quarter."

Hartley Branch added 42 yards on four carries.

"We have Muskegon Heights coming up and Sacred Heart after that," Blauvelt said. "We are looking forward the Sacred Heart game, as they are athletic and well coached. They may be the best team we will see in the regular season."

ALLENDALE—It was a clean sweep for the Saugatuck boys and girls cross country teams at the Allendale Invitational on Saturday, Sept. 27.

The Saugatuck girls finished with just 26 points to beat out runner-up NorthPointe Christian in the Falcon Division by 28 points, while the Saugatuck boys' total of 68 points edged out Potter's House by 17 points.

"Our teams put on an impressive showing," Saugatuck boys head coach and girls assistant coach Rick Bauer said.

The Saugatuck girls' team dominated their race, with all five of its scoring runners placing in the top 10 individually.

Alina Martinson led the way, placing second at 19:43. Kamryn Sixberry (fourth at 19:56), Lyvia Curtis (fifth at 20:21), Ellyse Heyser (sixth at 20:40) and Savannah VanDenBerg (10th at 21:31) followed.

Ryann Monroe (13th at 21:49) and Hayden Birkholz (33rd at 24:26) also ran for the Saugatuck girls.

On the boys side, the Trailblazers had three runners finish in the top 10: Marcus Silva was sixth at 16:40, Grant Rehkopf was seventh at 16:41 and Jackson Bowman was ninth at 16:59.

Sawyer Monroe (18th at 17:30) and Ira Brown (28th at 17:46) rounded out Saugatuck's scoring runners.

Sammy Gamboa (38th at 18:19) and Isaac Cruz (41st at 18:28) were the Trailblazers' other competitors.

Saugatuck girls head coach and boys assistant coach Angelina Bauer was understandably pleased with the effort from both teams.

"We had strong packs on both the boys' and girls' sides today," she said. "It was great to see so many athletes step up and compete well."

The Trailblazers' next competition will be at the Portage Invitational on Saturday, Oct. 4, for one of the largest and most competitive meets in the state.

Martin 0 South Haven 3

Sometimes the final score doesn't tell the whole story.

Martin coach Shannon Goddard believes her team's road match against South Haven on Thursday, Sept. 25, was one such occasion.

Because while the Clippers lost 27-25, 25-23, 25-17, Goddard believes the level of play from her team was near the best it's been all season.

"We battled hard against a much bigger school," she said. "This is the best we've played in a few weeks, and we look forward to building on this performance. We had great energy all night and we want to keep that going."

Marybeth Ritchie paced Martin with eight kills and two aces, while Mackenzie Schwartz had six kills and three blocks. Torryn Harris had 14 assists and 11 digs, and Kendra Goddard added 12 digs.

Saugatuck 0 Watervliet 3

The Saugatuck volleyball team traveled to Watervliet on Thursday, Sept. 5, and ended up on the wrong side of a 25-16, 25-16, 25-20 final score.

Natalia Laskowski had eight kills in the loss, while Chloe Collins and Emma Gosler each had four. Collins also had two blocks and Gosler had one block.

Gabbie Cochran served up three aces.

The Trailblazers hosted Holland Black River on Tuesday, Sept. 23, and each team scored 95 points during the match.

But Saugatuck fell short, dropping the 26-24, 19-25, 25-23, 25-23 decision.

Fennville 3 Coloma 0

Makaihla Steanburg was a serving machine in the second set of Fennville's SAC match with host Coloma on Tuesday, Sept. 23.

Steanburg served up 11 straight points—including three aces—as the Blackhawks cruised to the 25-5 lead after having taken set one 26-24.

Fennville also took the third set 25-19 to complete the sweep.

Lily Achterhof led Fennville with eight kills and 15 digs, while Mackenzie McIlwain had 21 assists, 10 digs and three blocks.

Marynn Winne added six kills and three blocks.

Allegan 0 South Haven 3

Despite suffering a 25-14, 25-22, 25-13 loss to visiting South Haven on Tuesday, Sept. 23, Allegan coach Many Matthews liked the fight she saw from her players.

"It was a tough match," Matthews said. "The girls battled hard, staying mentally tough against some strong hitters and keeping themselves in every game."

Addy Fales had 10 digs and five kills to pace Allegan. She also served at 100 percent.

Camdyn Drozd added three kills and a block, while Aubrey Fulton had seven assists and three kills.

Martin 2 G-A 3

A five-set battle went against Martin as the Clippers fell by a 22-25, 25-19, 25-22, 24-26, 15-12 score to Galesburg-Augusta on Tuesday, Sept. 23.

"We played well, but we just had a few too many unforced errors," Martin coach Shannon Goddard said. "Our offense has been struggling a little bit, but we're working through it."

Mackenzie Schwartz racked up 18 kills in the loss, Kendra Goddard had 27 digs, Torryn Harris had 29 assists and Anna Jager had seven aces.

Trailblazers fall short in divisional game with Delton

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

DELTON—With a 17-14 lead after three quarters of play, the Saugatuck football team appeared poised to claim a road win over Delton on Friday, Sept. 26.

But the Panthers had other ideas.

Delton scored a touchdown and made good on the 2-point conversion attempt in the fourth quarter to claim the 22-17 win at the Trailblazers' expense.

The loss was the second in a row for Saugatuck, which fell to 2-3.

"This was a tough loss on the road, especially when you have the lead going into the fourth quarter," Saugatuck coach Bill Dunn said.

Even though he was disappointed with the outcome, however, Dunn was not upset with the effort he received from his players.

"It was a great effort by the kids," he said. "Hopefully we can move forward in a positive direction.

"Win or lose, there is an opportunity for growth. And our goal is to grow from this."

Delton, which entered the game 0-4, struck first, taking a 7-0 lead at the end of the opening stanza.

But the second quarter belonged to Saugatuck.

Quarterback Walt Bos got Saugatuck on the scoreboard with a 57-yard touchdown toss to Gabe Lauer. Dante Holley made good on the extra point.

Then, as time expired in the half, Holley connected on a 34-yard field goal to give the Trailblazers a 10-7 lead.

"It was a great first half," Dunn said.

Saugatuck carried that momentum into the second half, as Bos scored on a 14-yard run and Holley converted the PAT to increase the lead to 17-7.

But later in the third quarter, Delton scored to make it 17-14, setting up their fourth-quarter comeback.

"We had opportunities on both sides of the ball to close the door in the third quarter, leading 17-7, but we lost momentum," Dunn said. "And to Delton's credit, they took advantage and capitalized on the opportunities given them."

Bos finished 3-of-8 passing for 68 yards. Will Soule (eight yards) and Max Page (three yards) joined Lauer with one catch each.

Page also had a team-best 69 rushing yards on 18 carries, followed by Soule with 61 yards on 17 carries, Bos with 44 yards on 10 carries and Mason Leslie with 16 yards on five carries.

Defensively, Page had nine tackles, followed by Nolan LaLonde with six. LaLonde and Pete Mitchell also had one sack each.

Tigers come up short in battle with Constantine

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

The SAC football game between host Allegan and Constantine started well enough for the Tigers.

Brandon Thrash broke loose for a 90-yard touchdown run and Myles Jackson converted the extra-point kick to give Allegan a 7-6 lead after one quarter.

But the Tigers were unable to score the rest of the way, while Constantine scored one touchdown in each quarter to secure the 25-7 win to drop Allegan to 1-4.

Thrash finished with 168 yards on 19 carries.

Defensively, Allegan got nine tackles from Evan Ritsema, eight each from Bradyn Kosiorowski and Ares Ratulowski and seven each from Sully Garvin and Keegan Rhoda. TJ Jameson added six tackles and Hauk Henrickson had five.

"It was a hard-fought battle," Allegan coach Tony Danzig said. "Our defense played great."

HOLLAND—In its showdown with host Holland Black River on Wednesday, Sept. 24, the Saugatuck boys soccer team surrendered a pair of first-half goals to fall behind 2-0 at halftime.

And that turned out to be the final score, as neither team managed to score in the second half.

Allegan swim & dive plays host to Otsego and Wayland

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

The Allegan girls swim & dive team hosted Wayland and Otsego on Tuesday, Sept. 23, and it was the Wildcats who had the best showing.

Wayland won 10 of the 12 events to post victories over the Tigers (82-56) and the Bulldogs (71-55). Otsego bested Allegan 75-63.

Laney Wolf, Sybil Williamson and Stella VanWyke led the Wildcats. Each won two individual events and were all part of the winning 200 medley and 200 free relay teams.

Wayland's 200 medley relay team (2:01.95) also featured Kaeli Whip, while the 200 free relay team (1:46.68) also featured Kendra Moore.

Wolf won the 100 butterfly (1:00.73) and the 100 breaststroke (1:15.39); Williamson won the 200 free (2:14.04) and the 100 free (58.17); and VanWyke won the 50 free (27.61) and the 100 backstroke (1:07.62).

Others event wins for the Wildcats came from Ariana Longstreet in diving (206.45) and the 400 free relay team of Longstreet, Moore, Whip and Alayna Rookus (4:13.08).

Otsego had the other two event victories: Aubrey Smith in the 200 IM (2:29.77) and Hope Stender in the 500 free (5:45.14).

Saugatuck cross teams take first at SAC jamboree

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

PARCHMENT—After finishing second at the first SAC jamboree two weeks earlier, the Saugatuck boys cross country team was hoping to move up one spot at the second jamboree on Wednesday, Sept. 24, in Parchment.

Mission accomplished.

With four of the top six finishers in the race, the Trailblazers ended up with 31 points to cruise to the victory over runner-up Black River (94 points).

Allegan (199 points) was seventh, Martin (218) was ninth and Fennville (263) was 11th.

The Saugatuck girls were also victorious, finishing with 49 points to win their second straight league jamboree.

Martin was fourth with 99 points, followed by Fennville (176) in sixth and Allegan (262) in 11th.

Leading the charge for the Saugatuck boys was the tightly packed quartet of Grant Rehkopf, Marcus Silva, Jackson Bowman and Sawyer Monroe.

Rehkopf was third at 17:12, Silva was fourth at 17:14, Bowman was fifth at 17:24 and Monroe was sixth at 17:31.

Ira Brown was the fifth and final scoring runner for Saugatuck, placing 13th at 18:05.

Allegan's Kellen Chalupa cracked the top 10, placing 10th at 17:50, while teammate Thomas Sigler was 19th at 18:42.

Jadon Dettmann (27th at 19:04) led Martin, while Atticus Boeve (31st at 19:16) had the best showing for Fennville.

The Saugatuck girls kept the momentum of their win in the first league jamboree alive with this victory.

Alina Martinson spearheaded the Trailblazers' effort by finishing fourth at 20:27. Lyvia Curtis (ninth at 21:45), Ellyse Heyser (10th at 21:54), Kamryn Sixberry (12th at 22:01) and Savannah VanDenBerg (14th at 22:21) were Saugatuck's other scoring runners.

Other top competitors from the area included Martin's Veyda Conley (second at 19:38), Fennville's Isabelle Sliter (third at 20:03) and Allegan's Jayden VandenAkker (seventh at 21:34).

Fennville football falls to New Buffalo

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

FENNVILLE—Trinity Solis scored a rushing touchdown and Carter Thompson threw for a TD for the Fennville football team in the third quarter of the game with New Buffalo on Friday, Sept. 26.

That was the good news for the Blackhawks. The bad news was that those were the only points Fennville was able to score as they dropped the 42-14 decision.

Solis scored on a 1-yard run and made good on the ensuing conversion run before Thompson connected with Ashton Halcomb for an 89-yard touchdown. That cut Fennville's 28-0 halftime deficit in half at 28-14.

Solis finished with 101 yards on nine carries, while Thompson went 8-of-26 passing for 189 yards. Solis was on the receiving end of six of those completions for 97 yards.

Ethan Rosencrans led Fennville with 8 tackles, while Ashton Senters had 5.5

Tigers cruise past visiting Lawton

By Jason Wesseldyk
Sports Editor

Creating shot wasn't an issue for the Allegan boys soccer team in its home showdown with Lawton on Monday, Sept. 29.

The Tigers finished with more than 20 shots on goal, and they converted on five of those opportunities to claim the 5-0 victory.

"It was a good game overall with lots of confidence building for the postseason coming up," first-year Allegan coach Andy Bishop said.

Sawyer Wedge led the Tigers with a two-goal, one assist effort. LJ Dial had one goal and one assist.

Colby Bishop and Donnie Allen each accounted for one goal, with Draven Terpstra and Fritz Thede each chipping in with one assist.

Nolan Richmond was in goal and was credited with the shutout.

Andy Bishop also praised the defensive play of Noah Greig, Nathan Martinez, Mateo Perez and Terpstra.

The Tigers also picked up a SAC win over Parchment on Tuesday, Sept. 23, as Allegan prevailed over the host Panthers 5-4.

Wedge starred for Allegan in this one as well, as he racked up three goals and an assist. One of his goals came on a penalty kick.

Colby Bishop accounted for the other two goals to go with one assist. Leland McKellips added two assists.

"The boys played much better as a team tonight," Andy Bishop said. "They passed the ball and put the ball up the field well. We had lots of good possessions."

Area consortium to use funding to focus on autism

By John Raffel
Correspondent

ALLEGAN — Former Allan County Board of Commissioner chairman National attention on the rise of Autism has been focused by Health and Human Services Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. last week.

"The Lakeshore Regional Entity, a consortium of seven counties that receives funds from the federal and state governments to distribute to its members," Storey said. "Among those health challenges the LRE is charged with aiding affected individuals' and families with Autism. Last Wednesday, the LRE board approved the annual 2025-2026 budget for the regional organization and its seven-member community mental agencies.

Part of the $478 million budget will be used to address the rise of autism in the region.

"Projection of the regional autism expense is $62.8 million. For Allegan County, OnPoint, the county's mental health agency, is projected to receive $5.4 million in the new fiscal year to assist autistic individuals and their families. The explosive growth of autism in the country, and its human and fiscal cost are driving Secretary Kennedy's encourage scientists to identify a cause."

Sylvia's Place plans fall festival fundraiser

By Gari Voss

Data on the severity of domestic violence is difficult to pinpoint, but the National Domestic Violence Hotline indicates that about 1 in every 4 women and 1 in every 10 men have experienced severe physical violence from an intimate partner. The statistics indicate that women in rural areas have reported higher prevalence and severity of intimate partner violence than those living in urban area.

An example of the incidents in Allegan County alone for 2022 registered 964 women who came forward because of domestic violence. Of those, 1 reported broken bones, 276 had minor injuries, 1 lost teeth, 1 had major injuries, 3 had possible internal injuries, 3 had severe lacerations, 145 had unknown injuries, and the others described no injuries even if there was evidence of some type of injury.

These are just the women who have stepped forward to seek assistance with their situation. There are others, for whatever reason, who have decided not to report a need. Some seek a place to escape from their situation but refuse to make a written report with law enforcement.

In Allegan County, there is only one domestic violence and abuse shelter with one hotline and one offering of emergency shelter – Sylvia's Place.

"Our mission is to create and to sustain a safe environment that empowers survivors of domestic violence through preventative education and advocacy, which promotes stronger individuals, families, and communities."

To create that safe environment, a full compliment of staff and support is required.

Sylvia's Place will hold its Fall Festival on October 9, 2025, from 5:30-8:30pm at The Silo, 1071 32nd St. (M-40), Allegan. It will be an evening of Hors d'oeuvres, dessert, and a photo booth. Those in attendance can enjoy the music of Kitten and the Tonics, bid on items in the Silent Auction, imbibe at the Cash Bar, and purchase Lions Tailgate Package Raffle tickets. All proceeds go to supporting survivors of domestic violence.

The Lions Tailgate Package that includes a remote control Lions cooler with speakers and lights, 2 game day tickets of amazing seats for Dec. 21, 2025, when Detroit faces the Pittsburg Steelers, and Detroit Lions swag and apparel. The total package is estimated at $2000. Tickets cost $5 each with all proceeds going to Sylvia's Place. To purchase tickets, go to www.sylviasplace.com or to the Sylvia's fundraiser page.

For additional information, go to https://fundraiser.support/FallFestival2025 to learn more about purchasing tickets, bidding on Silent Auction items, obtaining tickets for the Lions Raffle, and becoming a sponsor. Tickets for the Fall Festival must be purchased by Saturday, October 4, 2025.

RELIGION SECTION

In the twentieth chapter of St Luke's gospel, we read about an encounter between Jesus and a group of Sadducees. Stop right there because there is something wrong with this picture.

First, the Sadducees were the upper class of their culture, extremely wealthy and powerful. They would probably want nothing to do with the son of a mere carpenter, an unschooled man who became an itinerant preacher and healer. To them, Jesus was simply "not our sort of people."

Second, they are asking a question which presumes there is life after death, and yet the Sadducees denied that as a possible. For them, dead was dead. And. before we get too critical, they held that position because they were strict followers of the Torah (first five books of the Old Testament), and Moses said nothing about the resurrection or life after death.

Even so, St. Luke tells us about this strange encounter and how it ended. Because they did not believe in eternal life, we know that their question was not serious. They were not asking Jesus for information; they were mocking the Lord and trying to trip him up with whatever answer the Lord gave them. In short, they could not imagine a world that was different from the systems they already knew.

To be sure, it is hard to get our mind around a world that does not have us in it. To paraphrase Eleanore Roosevelt, "I simply cannot imagine how the world would get along without me." That is a very egotistical attitude, but a common one.

It is just as hard, if not even harder, to get our mind around whatever life after death might be like. Perhaps it is for this reason that so many artists, whether they are writers, poets, musicians, or painters, have attempted to describe heaven. To their credit, all of them are sincerely attempting to do the impossible - describing something beyond their full comprehension.

The whole question of life after death is something we do not fully understand. And what we do have before us, given to us by Jesus in this passage, is his affirmation to the Sadducees: "He is God not of the dead, but of the living; for to him all of them are alive."

For me, that is sufficient. I am not interested in the finer details about the nature of heaven. The only thing that truly matters is that when we die, the souls of the dead will be in God's presence. Our biggest fear is addressed.

In turn, that means that the resurrection is not only about life after death, it also includes how we can or should live while we are still here. I believe it means that every moment matters. Every person matters. Every act of love, every action taken for justice for all people, and every opportunity to forgive others are important. They are all foretastes of resurrection.

This day and every day, we are the resurrection people who have been given the opportunity to live with hope, and to proclaim our faith to others so that they might share in this gift from God.
